Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 1-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b,e,e) as being clearly anticipated by Everhart et al.(USP 5,922,550), Everhart et al.(USP 6,221,579) or WO 01/44813 respectively.

All of these references share common inventor but have different inventive entities and all teach the same pertinent details. Specifically, the references teach a substrate, a binder/reagent/pattern on the surface that is a guide to direct sample to the appropriate spot. Electromagnetic radiation, such as a laser, is directed on the surface of the substrate to visualize the results. All of these references teach detectors to quantitate the results.
